Incorrect. To solve an equation containing a radical, isolate the radical term, if necessary. Then square both sides of the equation to remove the radical. After you have done this, use the methods you have previously learned to isolate the variable.