

The formula for compounding interest semiannually is $A = P\left(1 + \frac{r}{2}\right)^{2t}$, where A is the balance after t years, P is the original amount invested, and r is the interest rate in decimal form. Find r if \$2,000 is invested and grows to \$2,080.80 after one year.