You may have squared both sides, simplified, and found the solution $x = 3$ to the resulting quadratic equation. However, there are two solutions to that quadratic equation, and you must go back to the original equation and check them. You will find that $x = 3$ is an extraneous solution.