

The vertical red line intersects the graph once. Similar lines can be drawn for each value of x , which will also intersect the graph once. Therefore, the graph represents a function.