Plot the point (1, 3) on the coordinate plane. A vertical line running through this point would also intersect the plotted point $(1, -1)$. This shows that the graph does not represent a function; it fails the vertical line test.