

It appears that you made a sign error when combining the constants. Remember that when you add a positive and negative number, the result will have the sign of the term with the larger absolute value.