

The constant in this function is positive, but it is not the constant that determines whether the graph will open up or down. It is the coefficient of x^2 that determines if the graph will open up or down. The correct answer is: Up, because a (the coefficient of x^2) is positive.