You correctly identified that the graph of the function will begin at (1, 1), but you may have forgotten that multiplying the square root by -1 means the graph will go down. The correct answer is: Yes, because it will begin at (1, 1) and decrease without bound.