

You mixed up the input and the output. The number of gallons of lemonade Anthony makes is the input of the function. The number of lemons he uses is the output.