

Plot the point $(1, -3)$ on the coordinate plane. A vertical line running through any of the five points does not intersect another point. This shows that the graph still represents a function.