

Incorrect. Make a table of values including 0, positive values, and negative values. Evaluate the function for each value of  $x$ , and record the output,  $f(x)$ . Each row in your table of values forms an ordered pair. Plot the points. Connect the points in a straight line.