Incorrect. For each function, the domain is all the x-values for which the radicand (expression under the radical sign) is not negative. Write an inequality, setting the radicand ≥ 0. Solve the inequality for x to determine the domain of the function.