

You may have thought that, because any real number can be substituted for x , both the domain and range are all real numbers. However, the graph of this function is a parabola. There will be a minimum value at the vertex of the parabola, which is the point $(0, -3)$. The range of the function is therefore $f(x) \geq -3$.