This graph is the graph of an exponential function, but the given function is a logarithm. The general shape of a logarithmic graph is this: it gets close to the y-axis for x near 0, increases as x increases, and is curved downward. The correct answer is the highlighted graph.