

This graph is the graph of a decreasing exponential function, but the given function is a logarithm. The general shape of a logarithmic graph is this: it gets close to the  $y$ -axis for  $x$  near 0, increases as  $x$  increases, and is curved downward. The correct answer is the highlighted graph.