You have mixed up the keys for natural logarithms and common logarithms. A natural logarithm uses the constant e as the base and is found by using the key ln on a calculator. The log key is used to find a different logarithm, one that uses base 10.