

As you move forward in time (going from left to right), the line graph is falling. This means that the interest rates (shown along the vertical axis) are decreasing.