A quality control officer in a blood center has to take temperature readings of the freezer every half hour to check for any changes in temperature. He wants to present the data he collects to his manager. Which graph would be the best choice to use to present the data?