Correct. A bar graph compares categorical data, such as the number of cookies sold by each girl. It will show the precise number of cookies sold by each girl and can be used to compare these numbers to each other.