

The graph for Eastern University does not begin at 0, and uses intervals of 5,000, while the graph for Western University begins at 0 and uses intervals of 20,000. When using two graphs to compare two data sets, the scales need to be consistent.