Correct. The Fundamental Counting Principle states that you can multiply the number of possible outcomes for each event to find the total number of possible outcomes for the combined events. Choosing the flavor has six outcomes; choosing the topping has four outcomes. The total number of outcomes or combinations is $6 \cdot 4 = 24$.