

This is true, and might be misleading. But even if the players did not play in all the games, Lewis made the most free throws. There is a better reason that this graph is misleading.