

This is the size of the event space, but you need to find the probability of the event occurring. Probability is always a number between and including 0 and 1. It is found by dividing the size of the event space by the size of the sample space. The correct answer is  $\frac{5}{6}$ .