

You may have confused the definition of congruent and similar. All three pairs show similar triangles because, as indicated by the markings, they have the same angles (the same shape). However, for two triangles to be congruent, they must also have the same size. The correct answer is A only.