

You may have confused the words congruent and equilateral. Both of these words have to do with certain things being equal. These two triangles are equilateral (because the three sides are equal), but that is not important here. Two triangles are congruent when they have the same size (same side lengths) and the same shape (same angles). The correct answer is A only.