

For a quadrilateral to be a parallelogram, it only needs to have pairs of opposite sides that are parallel. A rectangle is defined as a parallelogram with four right angles. Not every parallelogram has four right angles, so not all parallelograms are rectangles. The correct answer is "All squares are rectangles."