

A sphere is a round figure where every point on the surface is the same distance from the center. This solid fits the description of a sphere.